Forecast For London & Southeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 20 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mostly dry with variable cloud cover this weekend.

Today:
Dry with some sunny spells through the morning. However cloud will tend to encroach from the northwest, with only limited brightness expected during the afternoon. Mainly light winds, and still quite chilly, especially in the east. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Often cloudy during the evening and overnight, with the cloud becoming thick enough for some occasional drizzle. Plenty of cloud should ensure a frost-free night. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Sunday:
After a cloudy and in places damp start, it should steadily become brighter, with most places seeing some afternoon sunny spells. Generally a little milder than on Saturday. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Largely dry through the first half of the week, with some occasional sunshine on Monday and Tuesday. Generally cloudier on Wednesday, with winds remaining relatively light.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.